

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I cannot begin to express my appreciation for all the help I received in bringing this program to completion.

Angie Suellentrop stood behind my vision from the beginning and supported it every step of the way. She took my original material, made it better, and then was constantly there to offer her talents, encouragement, and advice. Her help has been indispensable.

The project also became a true family affair! My son, Tom, revised and edited the talks, highlights, and practical applications to improve their scholarship and give them a conversational feel and tone. I cannot thank him enough for his hard work. My husband, Tim, also contributed to some of the talks and did a final proofread. My daughter, Colleen, put her artistic talent into creating the Moms Transmit the Faith logo. And another daughter, JoAnn, helped with some of the typing.

Tiffany Hoeckelman managed the technical layout of the program and created the “Prayers and Practices” brochure. Printing and production was handled by Zach Belyew with Lampe Graphics L.L.C. And the website was set up by Erich Suellentrop.

Others I would like to thank for their contributions are Dr. Jim Stenson, for his “An Overview of the Virtues” article; Rev. C. John McCloskey, for his “Seven Daily Habits” article; Word & Life Publications, for the article on making a good Confession; Human Life International, for allowing the “Prayers and Practices” brochure to be inspired by their own entitled “This We Believe”; Mary Beth Rolwes, who contributed to some of the talks; Kelly Suellentrop, who helped with the highlights; and the many moms who contributed to the Practical Applications.

From the bottom of my heart, I sincerely thank you all!
